

NO WARNING TO NEUTRAL SHIP SENT TO BOOM BY SUBMARINE

American Consul At Havre Reports the Norwegian Bark, Silius, Destroyed in Violation of the Repeated Pledges

AMERICAN MEMBER OF CREW DECLARED BADLY INJURED

Fierce Bombardment Breaks Out
At Verdun Line—Paris
Admits Slight Loss of Ground
Under Hard Teutonic Assaults

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
LONDON, March 13.—The neutral Norwegian bark Silius, which was sent to the bottom last Thursday, was unwarned by the submarine that attacked her. This is the gist of the report, which United States Consul Osborne, at Havre, has already sent to his government at Washington. One of the members of her crew is reported to be an American. He was hurt by the explosion that sunk the ship. Promises Broken

The action of the submarine in sinking the Silius without warning is in direct violation of the numerous pledges which the Central Powers have been giving to the authorities in Washington. It is believed that the situation created by the sinking of a neutral ship without excuse and without warning, will reopen once more the entire submarine controversy between Washington and the Berlin officials.

Verdun Fight Continues
Paris officially reports that the fighting on the Verdun front continues. The war office in its nightly communique last night stated that after a tremendous bombardment of the whole line, the Teutons precipitated a fresh assault with infantry, to the east of the Verdun trenches, and succeeded in capturing several small trenches north of the little town of Eix. Elsewhere along the line, continues the report, there has been the most intense artillery fire.

The Germans claim to have repulsed attacks made by the French along the whole of the positions held by the Germans north of Verdun. These attacks say the Berlin reports, were made in massed formation, and the Gallie troops are declared to have suffered enormous losses.

French Losses Heavy

During the operations of the river Meuse, the Teuton report adds, the Kaiser's troops have succeeded in taking 26,472 unarmored French troops, 189 large guns and 232 machine guns.

Once again the Russians are beginning to grow aggressive on the eastern front. According to dispatches from Petrograd on the line of the Dnieper river, the Czar's legions have been able to beat back the Germans, capturing several of their trenches and forcing a slight realignment of the enemy's forces. In Persia, where the Grand Duke is moving forward steadily, fresh successes are reported. The town of Kirind has been taken and the Soviets are advancing in the direction of Bagdad.

Slav War Ship Lost

At sea the news Russia has to send out is not so good. The Petrograd ministry of marine last night announced that a Russian torpedo boat destroyer has been sunk off the port of Varna in the Black Sea, and that most of the crew was lost.

Great Britain also lost a ship at sea yesterday. The merchant fleet auxiliary Fauvette was sunk by a mine off the east coast of England. Fourteen members of her crew were drowned.

VILLA IS REPORTED TO BE SCATTERING HIS BANDIT FORCE

Army Officers Stationed At Columbus Regret That Pursuit Had To Be Abandoned

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
COLUMBUS, New Mexico, March 13.—Persistent rumors continue to reach this place that Villa has already become alarmed and is taking precautions against pursuit. He is reported to have begun detaching small bodies of his command, with instructions to make for the mountains in Northern Chihuahua and Sonora and there to be hiding until further orders reach them. Several of the small bands have been reported from the San Geronimo district, and others from the country in the hills on the Sonora border line.

Villa Was Hard Pressed

American officers stationed here are still regretting the impossibility of continuing the chase after Villa's retreating band last week. At that time his command was known to have been demoralized by the attacks of the American troops under Major Tompkins of the Thirtieth Cavalry, who in spite of the fact that he had with him but fifty-nine effective, kept in close touch with the fleeing robbers. So persistent was the pursuit that Villa dropped much of the loot he had gathered up in his raids upon American ranches. He also lost a great deal of his supplies and material, many men who went with Major Tompkins.

Delay Annoys Army Men

Since the return of Major Tompkins, Colonel Nicodemus has twice made attempts to get permission to resume the pursuit, but without avail. He has been instructed to wait until the formation of the punitive expedition. It is believed here that it will be several days before any of the columns can start, as the lack of adequate transportation for supplies and forage is proving a grave problem, and one that may make it impossible to begin the invasion of Mexico at this point.

BANDITS ATTACK PASSENGER TRAIN

TORREON, Mexico, March 13.—A band of Villistas under the command of General Urbalejo, yesterday attacked a train from Chihuahua, just outside the railroad yards of this city. The bandits opened fire upon the train without warning, killing several of the passengers. The train crew, and railroad employees who had been prepared for the attack immediately answered the fire and the fight raged in the yards for some time. The bandits finally succeeded in dynamiting the station. The robbers were at last repulsed, after a desperate struggle, leaving several of the railroad employees dead. A number of the bandits were also killed.

NO MOVE YET MADE AT EL PASO

EL PASO, March 13.—Sunday passed without a move on the part of the American authorities here to start the punitive expedition against Villa and his bands of roving bandits. On both sides of the border the forces massing against the bandit chieftain, continued to concentrate, the Americans on the one side, the Carranza forces on the other. The situation of the Mormon colony at Casas Grandes was reported to have improved with the arrival of reinforcements and supplies. There is still considerable danger from the marauding bands led by the Villista chiefs.

REGIMENT ORDERED FROM GALVESTON

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Secretary of War Baker announced last night that he has ordered the Twenty-third Infantry from its present post at Galveston to points on the border line where it is feared there may be attacks from roving bands of Villa followers. The President, who has been kept in close touch with the situation by wireless, is expected to return from Old Point Comfort this morning.

FIRST CAVALRY ORDERED TO BORDER

SAN FRANCISCO, March 13.—The gaps in the border patrol, formed by the gathering of the forces under General Funston for the expedition against Villa, are to be filled from troops stationed in other parts of the country. The entire First Cavalry, except Troops B and M, is ordered to proceed at once to the frontier for duty. It is believed that this regiment will be used as one of the Cavalry commands under General Funston in the chase after the bandits. Part of the regiment is now at the Presidio of Monterey, and some are stationed at San Diego. All troops are instructed to proceed at once to Fort Douglas, there to prepare for service. Some of the commands left their posts last night and others will start early this morning. Troops B and M are now at Camp in the Imperial Valley, on the border line, where for months they have been guarding the intake gates of the Imperial Valley irrigation system.

INVADERS WILL BE COURT-MARTIALED

Lieut. Bernard R. Peyton, of the Fourth Field Artillery, well known at Honolulu, where he served as aide-de-camp to Brig. Gen. M. M. Macomb, has been ordered before a general court-martial to face trial for the disobedience of orders. Lieutenant Peyton was one of a recon party of three officers and several enlisted men of the artillery who swam the Rio Grande and "invaded Mexico" some weeks ago in an attempt to rescue four soldiers who

GARRANZA INSISTS WASHINGTON MUST MEET HIS DEMANDS

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)

MEXICO CITY, March 13.—General Carranza, head of the provisional government, yesterday issued a manifesto to the nation declaring that Mexico will not permit American troops to "violate the neutrality" of Mexico, in their chase after Villa, unless the Washington authorities first grant his demand for a reciprocal privilege. He has instructed that copies of his manifesto be telegraphed to Washington at once.

This is Carranza's first definite official statement of his attitude toward the proposed invasion of this country by American soldiers in pursuit of General Villa. When, immediately after Villa's raid upon Columbus, New Mexico, it was announced that a punitive expedition would be sent into Mexico, it was reported semi-officially that General Carranza would insist upon reciprocal privileges.

Saturday he asked Washington for permission, if necessary, to send Mexican troops across the border into the United States. It is reported that the Washington administration is inclined to favor his request.

swam the river and had been captured by a patrol of Mexicans.

When the party arrived on the Mexican side of the river the Mexicans and their captives had disappeared, and on the return trip three of the recon party were caught in the current and drowned. General Funston issued a general order some months ago specifically forbidding officers or enlisted men of the army to pass over to the Mexican side of the river and enlisted offenders who have crossed the river have been tried by court-martial and severely punished.

The incident in which Lieutenant Peyton figured caused much excitement along the border and has been the occasion for a spirited debate in the senate. The senators were inclined to compliment rather than censure the "invaders," one member remarking in the course of the debate that "any officer who would not swim the Rio Grande to rescue a comrade-in-arms under any circumstances" is not fit to hold a commission in our army.

Efforts to induce the war department to interfere with the action of General Funston in ordering the trial of the officers have been unsuccessful and the court will meet this week at Hartington, Texas.

(Special Cablegram to Hawaii Shippo.)
TOKIO, March 13.—Art Smith, the American aviator is to attempt to make a flight inside the walls of the great Kokugikan wrestling hall. This feat was announced yesterday at the time it was learned that Baron E. It is the first time in the history of aviation that the attempt to fly under a roof has been set at March 26.

JAPANESE YARD BOY RUN DOWN BY AUTO

Badly Hurt, His Injuries Involving Broken Right Leg

Sakura, a Japanese yard boy, living in the camp on the corner of Peninsula and Herkules street, was knocked down by an automobile on Saturday night near Richfield, a place in Manoa Valley. The driver of the machine stopped and finding the Japanese badly hurt told him to remain where he was and he would come back for him.

A woman having seen the accident telephoned to the police station for the ambulance and when the wagon arrived on the scene Sakura had disappeared. Yesterday he telephoned to the emergency hospital asking that the ambulance be sent for him to take him to the hospital and when the wagon arrived it was found that Sakura had been picked up the night before by the police and had been taken to the Japanese hospital.

On examination the man was found to have received a severe fracture of the right leg. He was taken to the Queen's Hospital. He would not divulge the name of the man who injured him and who had taken him to the Japanese hospital.

Politicians Are Discussing Combination Whereby Prince Will Run For Mayoralty

The political "dope" sheet is being worked overtime these days and the latest on the street is that the present Delegate to Congress is to retire in favor of Robert W. Shingle and make the fight for him against E. L. McCandless for the position of the vice-president of the Hawaiian republic.

Neither Shingle nor Kuho would be known to the voters. The former is a well-known financier and the latter is a well-known superintendent. The combination of the two would be a formidable one.

GENERAL FUNSTON ASKS PEOPLE TO BE PATIENT DURING PRELIMINARIES

Country Through Which American Troops Must Operate In Barren Waste and It Were Folly To Attempt Invasion Until Forces Are Equipped and Supplied To Meet Exigencies

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)

WASHINGTON, March 12.—So secret are the plans formed by Maj. Gen. Frederick Funston for the invasion of Mexico and the capture of Villa being kept, that even the local officials do not know whether the first of the expeditions has started across the border line in pursuit of the bandit leader and his horde of ragged murderers. All that is known here is that the commander of the expedition is at work and that arrangements are progressing rapidly toward completion.

ASKS PEOPLE TO BE PATIENT

General Funston will take personal charge of the expeditions sent into Mexico to punish Villa for his outrages against American citizens. In a statement given to the press last night at San Antonio, Texas, General Funston said that he does not believe a "swivel chair campaign" would prove successful, and asks that the American people be patient, as it is absolutely necessary that the arrangements for feeding and supplying the troops should be perfected before any attempt is made to cross the border.

No time is to be lost in attending to this, declared the officer who will have charge of the running down of Villa, as he once had charge of the work of taking the Filipino chieftain, Aguinaldo, but an adequate commissary is the first and most important thing to be provided for ere the campaign can possibly start.

COUNTRY IS BARREN WASTE

The country through which the American troops must make their way is but a barren waste, save in the Casas Grandes valley, where there is some grass, and in isolated spot near the water holes. This makes it necessary for the troops to carry with them the forage for their mounts, and as most of the expeditionary force will consist of mounted men, Cavalry and mounted batteries, the question of forage is an important one.

"The American people must not be impatient," declared the general. "The task before us is a long and most arduous one, and one that requires the most careful preparation. Nothing could be worse than for the expedition to go off half-cocked. Forage and food, as well as ammunition and other supplies for the forces that are to be sent after Villa, must be provided for in advance, as the country through which the troops will move, will be rugged and for the most part a desert, with nothing but sage brush and mesquite or cactus."

WATER HOLES NOT ABUNDANT

"The water holes are few and far between, and they are known to the Villa commanders far better than they are to our men. It becomes necessary therefore for us to move with great caution. The complaints that have been made because we did not rush troops across the border at once are without basis. Beside the question of a mobile and efficient commissary, the places that are vacated by the soldiers used in the expeditionary forces must be filled if the border is to remain guarded, and that I conceive is a vital necessity under the conditions."

"These troops who have been doing border patrol for months are 'broken to Mexico,' so to speak, and they are the men I want with me, when we start. But their places will have to be taken by other troops, and it will take time to get those troops to the line."

SEVERAL COLUMNS WILL MOVE

Asked regarding his plans for the conduct of the campaign, General Funston said: "I don't mind saying that there will be a number of columns started at approximately the same time and from different places along the border. Naturally, I am unable to give out any information as to the number of these expeditions or the places from which we are planning to send them out. The entire control of all the forces will be in the hands of the commander of the expedition."

"Personally I shall go to the front with the men. I do not now, any more than in the past, believe in a swivel chair campaign. Such a campaign gets nowhere, in my opinion. I hope to finish this business as soon as possible, but I am taking no increased risks by hurry."

INSISTS ON AERO SQUADRON

General Funston said that one of the things he had been most insistent upon was the presence of an aero squadron to assist the troops chasing Villa. Such a help in finding the fleeing Mexican bandits would be invaluable, declared the commander of the expedition. He is also planning to secure the services of well-known civilians as scouts.

"These men will, of course, go with troops for the most part. Their work will be very dangerous for all of that, as it goes without saying that our advance parties will frequently come in contact with the scattered bands of the Villistas. Under ordinary war conditions such parties could, if they found themselves hopelessly outnumbered, surrender as prisoners of war."

In this campaign such a move is impossible, for Villa has sworn to murder every American he lays his hands upon. Surrender therefore is but the surest way of committing suicide that I can think of."
